EXAM results could suffer across north Oxfordshire if Warriner School gets permission to open a sixth form, Banbury School has warned.

It said the proposed Bloxham sixth form would be too small, risked money being taken from school budgets and could see A-Levels axed.

In a letter to Warriner it said: "Smaller sixth forms do less well and so there would be a potential reduction and lowering of the quality of experience and exam results of young people in these schools across north Oxfordshire."

"We also cannot support the investment of money into new sixth form provision, at a time of national austerity, when there are enough places with the range of post-16 providers for Warriner pupils now."

The Warriner wants 187 students in its sixth form by 2014. It is the only school in the Banbury area without a sixth form.

Under Government rules, funding follows the student, so whichever college they choose to attend would get cash.

In his letter, Banbury Schools Trust chairman Martin Wyatt said research shows smaller school sixth forms are more likely to need cash set aside for 11- to 16-year-olds.

Headteacher Dr Fiona Hammans said: "We are forever talking about results in this area so we could be shooting ourselves in the foot."

The number of post-16 students was falling and would continue to, she said, adding: "We may have to reduce the number of A-Levels we offer."

About 45 Warriner 16-year-olds move on to Banbury School, which this year has 277 pupils aged 16 to 18, each year.

A school consultation on the plans closed on Friday.

Warriner headteacher Dr Annabel Kay said: "We operate within a market place. It is about choice."

Warriner's sixth form could guarantee results and senior school staff have enough time to teach A-Levels, protecting budgets, she said.

Three young teenagers get reprimands

Arsonists, 13, damaged park

By Oliver Evans

TEENAGERS as young as 13 have been reprimanded for setting fire to two council-owned play areas.

Three 13-year-old boys were given the warning after they set fire to fence posts around Trinity Park, Bretch Hill.

A 17-year-old male was also given a final warning by police over an arson attack on posts at the Princess Diana Park, off Edmunds Road.

The October attacks left owners Banbury Town Council with a £1,600 bill to replace 24 posts.

Now three out of four play areas that were given a £400,000 makeover with taxpayers' cash since 2009 have been vandalised.

The council had to pay more than £5,000 after a separate arson attack on fence posts and a plastic tunnel at St Louis Meadow Park, near Foscombe Rise, last year.

The culprit was never caught.

Colin Clarke, chairman of the council's general services committee, said: "They have used aerosol cans as flame throwers. It is mindless vandalism and very frustrating."

"It is the parents of these children that are paying because it is coming out of the council tax."

Mr Clarke said the parents of the 13-year-olds were "a little bit shocked" at what their sons had done but the council chose not to pursue them for compensation.

He said: "The town council has decided it is not going to be too practical to get the money from the parents."

But he pledged to pursue vandals who commit further attacks.

Police spokesman Chris Kearney said a 17-year-old male was given a final warning for the October 6 fire in Princess Diana Park on Friday, December 2.

The three 13-year-olds were reprimanded through the Banbury Youth Offending Service for the 8pm October 3 Trinity Park attack.

All had to attend a Firesetter fire safety awareness course.

House used as brothel

A WOMAN last week admitted to allowing part of her home to be used as a brothel.

Barbara Bicka appeared at Oxford Crown Court last Thursday, and admitted being a tenant of the house in Orchard Close, Banbury, and 'knowingly permitting part of it to be used for the purpose of habitual prostitution' in May.

The 21-year-old denied a more serious count of keeping a brothel, and prosecutors formally dropped the charge.

Defence barrister Robin Harrison told the court: "She's a 21-year-old with no previous convictions who has lived in this country for less than a year, having come from Poland."

"Two females operated from this premises, the defendant and one other, working as prostitutes."

The charge to which Bicka pleaded guilty to is a summary-only offence and can only be dealt with by magistrates.

Judge Julian Hall bailed Bicka to be sentenced at Banbury Magistrates' Court on January 6.

Man serving 30 years for killing former partner and son

Double axe murderer's mum on her year of hell

A YEAR ON since her son brutally murdered his former partner and her son with an axe, Margaret Kelly has broken her silence.

The mother-of-four, 71, has recalled the day she found out her 46-year-old son, Michael Kelly, had killed Sally Cox, 43, and her 22-year-old son, Martin Faulkner, at their house in Mold Crescent, Banbury.

She said her son had been struggling to come to terms with the crumbling of his relationship with Ms Cox a few months previously, but was not showing any signs of erratic behaviour.

He had even agreed to meet her in Swindon town centre on the day of the killings.

Ms Kelly, who lives in Swindon, said: "The day I found out is just like one big haze.

"He must have gone completely berserk to do that and what I can never understand is how on earth he was able to drive back to Swindon from Banbury, having killed two people. How could you drive after that?

"I have asked him that very question and he just looked at me blankly and said 'I don't know. Everything was just red, everything was red'.

"He couldn't seem to accept that she just didn't want him.

"I would love to talk to the victims' family, but I don't think they would ever want to hear from me, knowing who I am.

"They may, in years to come, but it is too raw right now, just coming up for a year.

"I wish I could bring Sally and Martin back, but it just isn't going to happen. Michael wishes it had never happened, but it is just too late for that. It is so sad."

Michael Kelly, of Stratton St Margaret, Swindon, donned a horror mask and lay in wait for Ms Cox to return from walking her dog before killing her in her kitchen.

The couple, who both worked for parcels firm DHL at its Banbury depot, had earlier met on a dating website.

Ms Kelly attended the sentencing of her son at Oxford Crown Court in April, when he was told he would serve a minimum of 30 years behind bars after admitting two counts of murder and causing grievous bodily harm with intent.

Detectives believe Ms Cox's daughter, Amy, 19 at the time, and another girl, who cannot be named for legal reasons, would also have fallen victim to him had they not managed to escape during the attacks on December 13 last year.

Despite his actions, Ms Kelly still speaks to her son on a daily basis and visits when she can, but says she completely agrees with the sentence he was given.

"He did what he did and he should pay his debt to society," she said. "But when you have kids, you realise that you can never disown them, you can't.

"He has done what he has done and he must face up to that, but, at the end of the day, I am still his mother.

"It plays on my mind all the time. It has been a year of hell."

House price fears

EXPERTS have called for a major investment in affordable housing after figures showed Oxfordshire is the third most expensive county in the South East for property.

The National Housing Federation (NHF) pointed to Government statistics which showed the average price of an Oxfordshire home last year was £311,944, 13.8 times the average income of £22,656.

Its Home Truths South East report showed only Surrey and Buckinghamshire had higher values.

The Cherwell District Council area is the county's most affordable at £251,052.

A POPULAR four-mile circular route in the Ironstone Hills has been improved to give horse riders an easier path. Oxfordshire County Council did the work along the route through Milcombe and Lower Tadmerton using part of a £1,000 donation from the Oxfordshire British Horse Society. The authority's countryside service installed new latches at a height to allow riders to pass through gates without dismounting, and other gates were removed or realigned for better access.

Banbury-built World Rally Car picks up Autosport award

Rallying round a special car

By David Duffy

A MINI rally car designed by Banbury-based Prodrive has picked up a top motorsport industry award recently.

The Mini John Cooper Works World Rally Car was named Rally Car of the Year at the Autosport awards in London, the most prestigious event in the motorsport calendar.

The award followed the car taking podium positions in the World Rally Championship in France and Germany this year.

Prodrive chairman David Richards said: "This award caps what has been a truly memorable debut year for Mini in the World Rally Championship.

"We never anticipated that we would be fighting for podiums so soon, let alone leading WRC events, as we did in France.

"This award is a testament to the dedication of the whole team behind the project in Banbury and the commitment of BMW and Mini who have fully supported the programme."

Prodrive started developing the new World Rally Car early in 2009, but it wasn't until 18 months later that the Mini John Cooper Works WRC ran for the first time.

Head of Mini Dr Kay Segler, who collected the Autosport award with Mr Richards, said: "Wherever Mini has competed this year, it has seemed like all the fans have been cheering us on."

Rooms and a garden being added

Pub getting big revamp

By Oliver Evans

THE Three Pigeons pub in Banbury will reopen with a major refurbishment under new plans.

A planning application has been submitted to add three bed-and-breakfast rooms and create a "winter garden" at the rear yard, to be covered with a glazed roof.

There would also be a "full internal refurbishment" of the Southam Road pub, for which the freehold was sold by Enterprise Inns for in the region of £275,000.

The reopening of the Three Pigeons – which closed in April – is the latest boost for pub trade in the town.

We reported last month that The Buck & Bell in North Bar Street will reopen in January after it was bought by the White Horse Brewery.

And former owner Enterprise Inns announced it had found a new tenant for the Dog and Gun opposite.

The Three Pigeons plan includes satellite dishes, signs, modern kitchens and doors and an upgraded kitchen and new beer cellar. A disabled toilet will also be added to the premises and blocked-up openings will be reopened and timber windows and doors added.

Unused rooms would be turned into bed-and-breakfast accommodation under the plans, which will be decided by Cherwell District Council.

The planning applications says "the building has been severely neglected for many years, leading to the sad demise and decline in business and ultimately its eventual closure".

It adds: "The works are seen as essential for the long-term survival of the public house."

Lynne Baldwin, chairman of the North Oxfordshire branch of the Campaign for Real Ale, welcomed the news.

She said: "We are delighted that they want to keep it running as a pub and refurbish it in such a way that will make it even better than it was."

Enterprise Inns had not commented at the time of going to press.

Last month, we reported how new Buck & Bell owner Andy Wilson believed smaller companies and individuals were better placed to make pubs profitable than big firms.

Nat the cat needs new home

NATASHA the cat is looking for a new home after she was dumped from a car in Banbury.

The kitten and another black-and-white cat were left on the roadside by a woman who stopped her silver car in Harlech Close and drove off without them.

Natasha, who is six months old and is a short-haired female, is now being looked after by RSPCA volunteer Joan Howard in Abingdon.

The other cat ran off after being dumped and has not been caught.

Anyone who witnessed the kittens at about midday on November 27 should call the RSPCA cruelty line on 0300 1234 999.

Banbury estate among poorest in UK

Children from Ruscote living 'in poverty'

By Amanda Williams

CHILDREN on a Banbury estate are among the poorest in the country.

Ten estates in Oxford, one in Banbury and one in Abingdon are in the worst 25 per cent in England for levels of child poverty.

Oxfordshire's Annual Health report was published last week.

Dr Jonathan McWilliam, the county's health director, publishes the reports each year to guide health bosses on what the main problems and goals are for Oxfordshire.

According to his report, children living in Ruscote, in Banbury, and Caldecott, in Abingdon, are among the poorest in the country.

Those in Barton and Sandhills, Blackbird Leys, Carfax, Churchill, Cowley Marsh, Iffley Fields, Littlemore, Lye Valley, Northfield Brook, Rose Hill and Iffley, in Oxford are also in the worst 25 per cent.

He said child poverty was calculated as not just a lack of money, but about life chances available for young people.

In his report Dr McWilliam said: "Four out of five children living in poverty live in our towns and the city and one fifth live in rural areas."

"Some 12,315 live in the city, Banbury and larger market towns and 3,345 in rural areas."

"This is low compared to the national average, but variations between parts of the county tell the critical part of the story."

"Almost one in four children in Oxford, some 5,800 children, are living in poverty."

There are a number of schemes already being rolled out in these areas designed to enrich children's lives.

In Barton, the Thrive project has been working with young people to improve their life chances.

Youth workers have been teaching children how to grow their own fruit and vegetables on allotments and to cook meals for the community with them.

Barton Community Association secretary Sue Holden said the estate was actually 'blessed' with excellent facilities. She said: "There are some wonderful projects going on in the estate and we're far better off than many other places in Oxford in terms of facilities."

Musicians hope online campaign will help

Anti-cuts band are aiming for festive No.1

By Oliver Evans

A LEFT wing Oxfordshire folk rock band are hoping to land a Christmas number one with a protest song about Government cuts.

Leatherat want an Internet campaign to see online sales of We're All In This Together inch out this year's X-Factor winner.

The profits between the Occupy and UK Uncut protest groups, which have hit headlines with high profile public demonstrations.

It draws inspiration from the March 26 TUC March in London, which band members attended and where protesters 'occupied' Fortnum & Mason department store.

Lyrics include: "At Fortnum & Mason there was nowhere to sit/ As anarchists popped in for tea at the Ritz".

It is also believed to be the first pop song to make reference to quantitative easing.

Lead singer, guitarist and mandolin player Pete Bailey, 41, from Bloxham, pictured front, said: "It's an anti-austerity song prompted by the very strong feeling that the actions of the banks and financial sector are costing us our public services."

"The poorest sections of society are being asked to pay for the mistakes of the richest and it's now time to put that right."

"There is a growing groundswell of opinion against it."

The track is on video sharing website YouTube and will appear on online retail service iTunes the week before Christmas.

In 2009, iTunes was credited with helping get heavy metal track Killing In The Name by Rage Against the Machine to Christmas number one after a web campaign.

Mr Bailey said: "We really hope people get behind it."

"With enough 72p downloads we could make the charts. And if it goes really viral we could even make it the UK's Christmas number one."

Competition this year also includes the cast of TV's The Only Way Is Essex with Last Christmas and Mariah Carey and Justin Bieber's All I Want for Christmas Is You.

Members of London Occupy joined the band for the video shoot in the capital, which includes Parliament, the Old Bailey and the London Eye.

Conservative Ken Attack, lead member for financial management on Tory-run Cherwell District Council, said he was more of a Roxy Music and Cream fan.

He said: "I'm sure the song will resonate with many young people and older ones and if they get on Top of the Pops, if that is what it is called then good for them."

"Whilst I have some sympathy with the ways councils implement these cuts, overall I personally am very content with the programme of cuts."

County council: We have a good track record of managing salt stocks

Gritters at the ready

OXFORDSHIRE County Council has reiterated it "has a good track record of managing salt stocks" after sending out gritting lorries for the first time this winter.

The council said it had more salt in stock than at this time last year.

Spokesman Paul Smith said: "Oxfordshire County Council was one of the few Councils not to run out of salt stocks in the harsh winter of 2009/10, and there were no issues with salt stocks at any stage in the 2010/11 winter.

"The council, therefore, has a good track record of managing salt stocks."

He added: "Despite not

By Thom Airs

having had any issues with salt stock levels in 2010/11, the council has more salt in stock than it did at the start of the 2010/11 winter."

The council said its arrangements for gritting remained unchanged from last year and that its gritters cover 43 per cent of the county's road, "which is more than other local authorities and includes all A roads and many B roads".

In all, Oxfordshire County Council has the ability to use 30 gritters at once, covering a total of about 1,200 miles of road.

Mr Smith added: "The county council has not made any reduction to gritting routes, as a result of the financial cuts having to be made across the public sector. The county council has no current plans to make any such cuts."

● Oxfordshire Rural Community Council is urging parish councils to bulk-buy rock salt together, after many last year reported storage bins being raided by people for their private driveways.

Councils can buy 25kg bags in large numbers to sell back to residents.

Parishes can order pallets of bags at a reduced price at community-buying.com

Road salt stocks are topped up and ready for any freeze, says the county council

Shoppers queue to snap up '£300 bottle of spirit' for £49.99

Bargain whisky snapped up fast

By Andrew Ffrench

IT was the bargain bottle of 40-year-old whisky that was seemingly worth braving the chilly morning for dozens at budget supermarket Aldi.

Dozens of shoppers queued outside the stores in Banbury and Botley Road, Oxford, last week, hoping to buy the advertised bargain of a bottle of Glenbridge, apparently worth £300 but on offer for £49.99.

But with only six bottles available at each Aldi outlet, tickets were given to the first six customers at each store who turned up at 6am — two hours before the store opened.

About 25 shoppers queued for the whisky from 6am outside the Aldi store in Ruscote Avenue.

Aldi had advertised it as a Speyside single malt, with only 3,000 limited edition gift sets available and aged for at least 40 years in one of "Scotland's premier distilleries".

According to the firm, connoisseurs can open the bottle "to find a beautiful mahogany liquid with the aroma of dark chocolate and dried figs. Then taste the elegance. Vibrant fruit flavours with a spicy aromatic oak nuttiness fade into a lingering sweet and mellow finish. Bliss."

Assistant manager Kelvin Brooks said: "I gave the tickets to the diehards who were here at 6am so that they could go and sit in their cars instead of standing in the cold while they waited to pay for the bottles."

"I thought that was the fairest way to do it, and I explained to the 30 people who turned up at 8am what had happened.

"People were disappointed but didn't seem too upset."

Emma Kelly, 24, of Oxford, who works in the catering department at Oxford Brookes University, said she arrived at the store at 7am to try to buy a bottle of the whisky for her father Michael Kelly, 62.

She said: "I was told by one of the managers that the bottles had already been allocated to people who had queued up earlier."

"I don't think it was fair to allow customers to reserve bottles. They should have been sold when the store opened at 8am."

"I feel cheated and I'm not planning to shop in Aldi again."

"Now I will buy my dad a bottle of whisky from the specialist whisky shop in Turl Street."

Retired telecoms worker Mr Kelly added: "It's very disappointing the way Aldi handled this."

Former Oxford Bus Company park-and-ride bus driver Michael Williams, 62, was another whisky fan who ended up disappointed.

He said: "I collect rare whiskies so I thought it would be nice to try this one for Christmas. I have spent £300 to £400 on bottles of whisky in the past and my favourite is Ardbeg from Islay."

"The Aldi whisky came from a distillery in Speyside but they are not saying which one and there are dozens of them."

Peter Hack, manager of The Whisky Shop in Turl Street, said he did not recognise Glenbridge as a listed distillery.

He added: "Last year, we sold a bottle of blended Scottish whisky called the 1960 Last Drop for £1,200."

One-man crimewave jailed

A 'ONE-MAN crime wave' has been sent to prison for four years after being found guilty of burglary.

Jeffrey Ball, 52, was jailed after stealing a purse from a home in Dashwood Terrace, Banbury, on June 2.

He has now been found guilty of 159 offences in the last 39 years, including burglaries, thefts and drug-related crimes.

The Edmunds Road resident was sentenced at Oxford Crown Court.

Detective Constable Mark Pasionius, from Banbury CID, said: "Ball has represented a one-man crime wave for many years."

"The length of sentence he was given by the judge reflects his life of crime and the harm he has done to the town in which he lives."

Prequel sees Puss ride again

PUSS IN BOOTS 3D (U, 90 mins)
Animation/Comedy/Action/Romance. Featuring the voices of Antonio Banderas, Salma Hayek, Zach Galifianakis, Billy Bob Thornton, Amy Sedaris, Constance Marie, Guillermo del Toro. Director: Chris Miller.

Jolly green ogre Shrek and his sweetheart Princess Fiona amassed nearly $3bn at the global box office before heading into the fairytale sunset at the conclusion of yesteryear's Shrek Ever After.

All good things must come to an end, except in Hollywood, where a single original idea deserves at least one sequel and a spin-off film franchise or TV series.

So it comes to pass with Puss In Boots, a computer-animated prequel to the Shrek films that traces the formative years of the sword-fighting feline before he crossed paths with the pungent ogre and a wise-cracking Donkey.

Director Chris Miller, who helmed the third chapter in the Shrek saga, maintains a brisk pace, exploiting the 3D format in a rooftop chase sequence and a flamenco-style dance battle between the Casanova cat and his rival, replete with slow-motion acrobatics.

The script plunders familiar characters from nursery rhymes and fairytales, putting a fresh spin on Jack & The Beanstalk.

"Is it true a cat always lands on its feet?" one outlaw asks Puss during his escapades.

"No, that is just a rumour spread by dogs!" retorts the swordskitty.

The story begins with the young Puss (voiced by Antonio Banderas) being abandoned at an orphanage where kind Imelda (Constance Marie) raises the kitten as her own.

Initially picked on by the boys, Puss learns to fight to survive and he helps protect fellow outcast Humpty Alexander Dumpty (Zach Galifianakis). Many years later, the surrogate brothers join forces with sexy pickpocket Kitty Softpaws (Salma Hayek) to steal magic beans currently in the possession of outlaws Jack (Billy Bob Thornton) and Jill (Amy Sedaris).

These magic beans are rumoured to grow a beanstalk that leads to the giant's castle and the greatest treasure of all: the Golden Goose.

However, old rivalries between Puss and Humpty jeopardise the daring enterprise.

Puss In Boots is simply the cat's meow.

Miller's colourful film is littered with neat flourishes, such as a saloon customer who avoids expository dialogue with the aid of tattoos on various parts of his body, or the strays in the Cat Cantina, who form a makeshift orchestra for the dance showdown.

Banderas purrs every line with unconcealed delight and he sparks fiery on-screen chemistry with Hayek's feline fatale. Galifianakis milks laughs and sympathy for his ovoid oddball, who laments at one point: "I've made a mess out of everything. I'm a rotten egg!"

The climactic ascent of the beanstalk ensures a slam-bang finale, suggesting there is plenty of life in the swashbuckling furball if DreamWorks Animation laps up a potential sequel.

Redditch United gain revenge for cup defeat to United

Late goal sinks Banbury

■ Evo-stick Southern League

BANBURY United conceded a late goal in the Premier Division as Redditch United exacted swift revenge for their midweek defeat.

The Puritans ran out 2-0 winners in the Red Insure Cup on Tuesday evening. But they drew a blank this time as Tom Berwick's goal seven minutes from time gave the home side victory.

Former Oxford City and North Leigh striker,

■ Redditch Utd 1 (Berwick 83)
■ Banbury Utd 0

Jimmy Deabill, had a good chance for Redditch in the first half, when he went round Oxford United loanee Max Crocombe, in goal for the unavailable Andy Kemp, only to fire into the side netting.

Aaron Woodley then burst through and clear, but blasted the ball high over the bar.

Banbury had an escape when Deabill headed Tommy Warner's free-kick against a post.

Neither goalkeeper was seriously tested in the second half, until Berwick struck the ball wide of Crocombe into the corner of the net.

Banbury Utd: Crocombe, Williams (Polk 79), Kinch, Dolman, Chilton, Cole, Coleman, Howell, Edmond (Johnson 66), Woodley, Walker. Subs unused: Thackeray, Kingston. Attendance: 172.

Hospital trust issues winter flu jab reminder

NHS Oxfordshire has reminded people it is not too late to get the annual flu jab.

The vaccination is offered to everyone who is aged over 65, people with long-term health conditions and pregnant women. Paid and unpaid carers can also consider having the seasonal flu influenza vaccination to reduce their chances of getting flu, and continue to help those they look after.

If you think you may be eligible for a free vaccination, contact your GP surgery as soon as possible.

If you are not eligible for a free flu vaccination but would still like to have one, many local pharmacies and supermarkets with pharmacies are offering paid-for vaccinations.

Visitors to an exhibition of county artists' work voted Ronny Loxton, of Swalcliffe Lea, as their favourite. The Burn, an acrylic painting of a Highland cow above misty morning valleys, was chosen by visitors to the Art2 2011 exhibition at Banbury Museum and the Mill Arts Centre. Collecting a cheque for £100, she said: "It's always nice to have positive recognition for your work."
